"AS TIME GOES BY . . ."

"As Time Goes By..."

"As time goes by..." we will change and grow older. Some of us will leave here and go out in the world. Others will stay here and carry on. But wherever any of us are, we will keep the memories of our years of laughs and tears, losses and gains, pauses and failures. Some people say we can never go back, but with our happy memories and friends we've made, who needs to?

"As time goes by..." we will never forget Taconic, with all it has done for us and all we have done for it...

To the class of '81

... A Dedication

As we pass in rank and file from the graduation ceremony, each of us will follow a separate path and experience new and different things.

Our lives are continuing on to unique spheres, and, in leaving a part of ourselves behind, may we take with us the memories that have made these three years special, and a greater kindness and consideration toward others.

To succeed, we must learn from the failures of those gone before us and from ourselves as well, so that others may pick up where we leave off. May we not stray from the paths we have chosen, but remain steady and true to the course we are traveling. The friendships forged in the halls of Taconic High will stand the tests and stresses of the roads we are on, if we continue to show that we care while we grow and move apart.

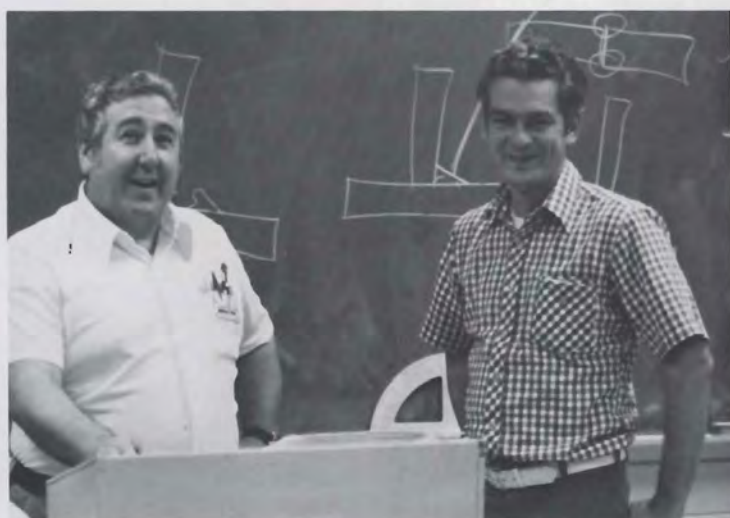

We are heir to the world, and its fate lies within our hands. May we not avoid our duties or responsibilities, but continue to make the right and just decision.

We are passing from one world into another, and may the paths we take be what we want from life. And may the lives we make for ourselves be satisfying and complete.

CLOSE YOUR EYES SO THE TEARS WON'T FALL

It was three years ago in September,
On a field behind the school.
A soccer team we will always remember,
Was born to begin its rule.

So close we came to victory,
And almost won it all,
But then there would be no story,
Of the team that had the biggest fall.

As Sophomores we began
To form our basic skills,
For every mile we ran,
To match it we ran hills.

Walking on the field sometimes,
Thinking that we're going to win,
If only we could read between the lines,
And know that our chances were thin.

Disappointment followed wherever we went,
For two years in a row.
For no one could understand how much it meant,
For only the Seniors know.

At the end of many important games,
When it's too late to kick the ball,
When you look around, there's no one to blame,
Close your eyes so the tears won't fall.

In Memoriam

Anthony Masdea - June 23, 1963 - August 9, 1980

We all at one time in our lives have had a special friend.

Tony had many special friends. He also had a special way of making people happy.

His music made people dance. His jokes made people laugh. And his smile made him shine.

Tony in all ways was special and will never be forgotten.

Michelle Porter

We wish to extend our most sincere thanks to the senior class for remembering Serge in your yearbooks and lives.

Six teen-agers from other countries have added an international flavor to the Taconic High School student body this year. Left to right are Barbara Marchal of Belgium, Hemlala Patel of India, Dung Van Huynh of Vietnam, Joaquin Romero of Mexico, Shilpa Patel of India and Hokan Magnussen of Sweden.

TACONIC HOSTS FOREIGN STUDENTS

It's a long way from Sweden, India, Belgium, Mexico or Vietnam to Valentine Road, but students from each of those countries have made that journey this year, offering the student body at Taconic High a rare glimpse of various cultures.

And the outsiders have had their chance to see differences between teenagers here and at home, finding Americans more open, school life more important, drugs more common, clothes like jeans much less expensive.

Coming to this country for many different reasons, the foreign students came through several different channels. Barbara Marchal, for instance, came from Leige, Belgium, through a program called the International Fellowship, in which a student from Taconic would spend time in one of the involved foreign countries and a student from that country would come to Taconic the following year.

The students stay with families and are provided with everything except spending and travel money.

When Barbara first arrived in Pittsfield, she stayed with Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Farrell. After Thanksgiving, she moved to the home of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Perera. Barbara has been most impressed by the openness and congeniality of the American people, which she says is quite different from Belgium, where privacy is very important.

Since she is staying with families that have children close to her age, Barbara has been able to compare teen-age life here with that in Belgium.

Drugs and alcohol, she finds, are much more common among teen-agers here than in her country, and dating is taken much more seriously here than in Belgium, where teens go out much more frequently and with different people.

Barbara also notes that here school is very important, beyond just the required subjects. She says that in Belgium all the courses that are offered are the essentials - math, French, a language, social studies and science. There are absolutely no extracurricular activities and no such thing as school spirit.

"Here, students take an active interest in their school and are proud of it. It is much more important part of your life than it is in Belgium," she says. Barbara also thought that the relationship between teachers and students was much more personal, but that often students were ruder to teachers and adults in general than they are in Belgium.

Hokan Magnussen is from Helsingborg, which is right on the southern coast of Sweden. A rather shy and quiet young man, Hokan finds few differences between life here and in Sweden. Hokan came here through one of many exchange programs at his school.

The thing that impressed him most about this country was how inexpensive things are here, especially commodities like jeans and shirts. Hokan was really disappointed that he could not get his driver's license, since he had hoped to get some driving in before returning to Sweden, where the driving age is 18.

Although most aspects of teen-age life are the same here as in Sweden, Hokan did think that drugs were much more common here.

• • •

Coming from Cuernavaca, Morelos, which is in Central Mexico, Joaquin Romero follows his cousin Lorenzo, who was an exchange student at Taconic last year. When she went back to Mexico and told Joaquin about her stay, it sounded so good to him that he wrote Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith, her host family, to ask if he could come, too. The Smiths agreed, so Joaquin is here.

Although he is at home here, Joaquin does miss his nice warm Mexico, where he loves to run. Joaquin thinks teen life, as far as sex, drinking and drugs are concerned, is a lot more sophisticated here than in Mexico.

But the major difference he discussed was the school structure. In Mexico, students go to school for 15 years, six of grammar school, six junior high and three high school. During the last year of high school, each student chooses a career and then receives training in that field.

Students attend school from 7 a.m. to 1 p.m., and stay in the same room for all that time - it's the teachers who move from room to room.

Dung Van Huynh left Saigon in Vietnam 2½ years ago with his father and one brother, leaving his mother and three younger brothers behind. Transition to life in this country has not been easy for Dung, who misses his family, Vietnam and the vacations his family used to take in the countryside.

Dung has great enmity for the North Vietnamese, because he feels they discriminate against the South Vietnamese by rationing food and taking away material wealth.

Dung hopes to join the army and return to Vietnam when he gets out of high school. In the army Dung wants to specialize in electronics, since he is very good in math.

Dung's one major complaint about life in the United States is that he thinks families are not close enough. He said that in Vietnam parents like to go out for walks with their children and talk with them. Here, he says, parents hardly ever talk with their kids, and as soon as they are 18, kids are ready to move out, which he thought was a sad situation.

Shilpa and Hemlala Patel, cousins from India, left their country two years ago and lived in Chicago for a while before joining an uncle in Pittsfield. Life in the United States is a little hard for them to adjust to, especially since the language is so much different from theirs. Other things that were hard at first were all the rights women have. In India, women are not allowed to smoke, drink, have a menial job or drive.

Also alien to them was the concept of boys and girls dancing. Hemlala explains that kids in India think of each other more as brother and sister than boy and girl. Instead of dating, at around the age of 10 or 11 boys and girls become engaged, at 18 they are married. While parents have most of the say in this, the child's opinion is asked before the final arrangement is made.

Rosie,
It's been a long three years, but it was worth it. It's been great knowing you and I hope you feel the same about me. Best of luck always although I'm sure you really don't need it - you're a survivor!

Friends Always,
